

On a moon there was a shining star and a man, and the shining star had a plan, and a plan was if they took the 15 mile walk to the witch's house then they could live there forever. Off they set on their amazing journey to the smelly old witch.

The amazing journey took very long and it was also very tiring for the man he started to get really annoyed that he was not there yet, but then out of no where there was a strange spaceship and on that spaceship was a cool funky alien, his name was Timothy. He stopped then hopped out the top of the spaceship and said to the annoyed man "are you ok, do you need a hand". The man just looked up and nodded and said "can I have a lift to the smelly witches house please"

The funky alien and the man hopped into the spaceship, they started playing their funky music and they set off into the distance to go to the smelly witches house to have there next exciting adventure.

I wonder what will happen next?...